

Curriculum Intent: Citizenship

The citizenship curriculum provides some of the foundations necessary for pupils to question norms, develop an understanding of British values and think critically.

Focus teaching and learning on developing pupils' understanding of citizenship concepts and use and application of citizenship skills, as these are the essential foundations of high quality citizenship education. Citizenship concepts include democracy, government, law, justice, rights and responsibilities, participation, community, equality, identities, diversity.	The responsibilities of individuals to society are referred to in the content and structure of lessons to engender a sense of place in society.	At its heart is the expectation that good citizens take a collective view of the world.	Citizenship skills include critical thinking and researching, enquiry, tackling controversial issues, oracy, discussion and debate, advocacy, influencing, campaigning and other forms of citizenship action, collaboration and teamwork, problem solving and critical reflection.	Citizenship strives to develop in young people a sense of place and consequently an appreciation of how context determines that sense. In this area we look to challenge perceptions and develop mindful citizens.
